MISS SADIE KUGLEMAN HONOR GUEST AT LOVELY "FARMER PARTY" AND MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER.

One of the most charmingly original and lovely affairs given this season was the "Farmer" party and miscellaneous shower with which Miss Sadie Kugleman, one of June's sweet bride-elects, at the home of Miss Hirschman, on North Spring street, last evening.

Wild flowers, greenery and moss had converted the pretty home into a charming woodland setting for the scene of the party, and the guests, which included between thirty and forty of Miss Kugleman's girl friends, came attired in overalls and pinafores, aprons, daisies, water lilies, carnations, daisies, nasturtiums, pansies, daisies, and sweet peas filled the rooms with their fragrance, and a large placard bearing the sign, "Foolish Farming in Franklin," which placed the groom-elect will take his bride to reside, greeted the guests upon their entrance.

Vocal and instrumental music was enjoyed all during the evening, and a very interesting game, the object of which was for the guests, blindfolded, to pin the whiskers on the farmer, symbolized by a large drawing on one side of the room, was played.

After the game the apartments were thrown open, disclosing to view the dining room where the shower was held, and in the center of which, on a round table, was an exact miniature of a country home, a quaint log house covered with old-fashioned rose vines, blooming in every detail. Flowers were blooming on the grassy lawn, ducks swimming in a nearby pond, fowls were in the barnyard, haystacks were seen in the distant fields, and even a ferocious bulldog was chained to his house in the yard. Enclosing the whole was a neat little rail fence.

In one corner of the room was a large haystack, which, when raked down by little Miss Janice Gunderheimer, attired as a farmerette, was found to contain a beautiful assortment of lovely gifts for the bride-elect. A delicious salad and sweet course was served the guests, and refreshing punch dispensed with a dipper from an oak bucket hanging in an old-fashioned, moss-covered well.

Another game which was the source of much merriment, was the story of the bride and groom-elect, told with the names of vegetables. The cards with the questions were hand-painted with vegetables tied with green ribbon and adorned with tiny yellow chicks. Questions asked on them were:

1. What's the bride's name?
2. What's the groom's name?
3. What's the rival name?
4. What was the bride's father's name before the groom met her?
5. On what street in Paris did they meet for the first time?
6. What makes walking hard for the groom?

Answers were the answers:

1. Carrots.
2. Jerusalem.
3. Parsnips.
4. Corn.
5. Canteen.
6. Parsnips.
7. Lettuce.
8. Beans.
9. Mustard.
10. Greens.
11. Olive.
12. Turnip.

MY PAL.

The following poem, written by Harry C. Hervey, Jr., of Houston, Texas, a nephew of C. B. Hervey of this city, which was published in the Houston Post, portrays in its lines an understanding and feeling of comradeship exquisitely expressed and will be read with interest by a number of friends in Pensacola:

A little grave somewhere in France,
And then the long, dark, lonely night—
Or, is your death a sacrifice,
Its inspiration lost to sight
Of man—

Is yours a journey through the night,
Along some dark, forbidding trail—
Or had your eyes that visioning
Which sees beyond the blackest veil
Some light?

Is your reward a wooden cross
In fields where purple iris grow—
Or is there far above your mound
Some secret that we do not know
Exists?

I saw you fall. The reddest fight
Was raging where your body fell;
I knelt beside you where you lay;
Your words were not of heav'n or hell—
But her.

And words need not be words of tongue,
For your eyes tell more than lips
E'er speak;
And your eyes spoke a word to me—
(A lone tear trembled on your cheek)
Of her.

Oh, Pal, as flowers fringe your grave,
As night winds o'er your ashes sigh,
I wonder if your girl remains
In faith to love's enduring tie—
Or not?

Oh, Pal, you gave the best you had,
You played the silent hero's part,
Without a hero's guided badge,
And your idols locked in your heart—
Untouched.

Oh, Pal, you left behind your girl,
Your friend—your mother's kisses,
Too;

You left behind the rose's blush,
And other things I never knew—
And life.

Oh, Pal, you left behind all this;
The world will soon forget you died;
But I shall not forget, old Pal,
You will always be at my side—
Alive.

"MIKADO" SCORES BIG SUCCESS AT MILTON.

The "Mikado," the charmingly picturesque Japanese comic opera which has been shown with such success in Pensacola under the direction of E. G. Oxenham, made quite a hit with a large Milton audience when they played in that town last Saturday night.

The cast was the same as when shown in Pensacola, with the exception of Yum-Yum, played in a clever and fascinating manner by Miss Elic Williams; Fish-Tush, by Lieutenant Pryor, U. S. N., who took the part in a professional and masterful manner, and the part of the "Mikado" was taken to perfection by Ensign Leggett, U. S. N.

The Pensacola Players' Club, under whose auspices the play was given, has greatly enlarged since its first organization, and included in its membership are some of the city's most talented musicians, with many from elsewhere. Officers of the club are E. G. Oxenham, president; Miss Donna Jones, vice president; Miss Mollie Sanchez, treasurer; Leo A. Waters, secretary.

KURFRIAN-MURRAY WEDDING AT ST. MICHAEL'S.

A pretty marriage quietly solemnized at St. Michael's Roman Catholic church yesterday morning, at 11:30 o'clock, was that of Miss Daisy Murray, the attractive daughter of Mrs. E. J. Murray, to Mr. George Kupfrian, Reverend Father Fullerton officiating. The bride was charming in a chic spring traveling suit of navy blue georgette model, with accessories to match. Mr. Edward Torenance was best man.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Kupfrian left for an extended wedding tour, including St. Louis, Kansas City, Denver, Colo., and other interesting points, after which they will return to Pensacola to make their home.

INTEREST IN CARNEGIE WEDDING.

The Carnegie-Miller wedding, which took place last week in New York, was one of the most unostentatious that ever brought into matrimonial alliance two of America's multi-millionaire families. Nevertheless, public interest in the function was manifested in various ways, and on the wedding day the high iron fence surrounding kee & St. Paul road. It is worthy of avenue desirous of catching a glimpse of the heiress to the Carnegie millions and the young naval ensign who has won her heart and hand.

The two young people who were wedded Tuesday are interesting, chiefly because of their great wealth, and further because of the fact that the bridegroom will in the course of time become master of one of the greatest fortunes in America, providing that Mr. Carnegie does not give away his remaining millions to avoid the "disgrace" of dying rich.

The bride is the only child of Andrew Carnegie, the Scotch emigrant lad who landed at Pittsburgh virtually penniless, and when still in the prime of life was able to retire with one of the largest personal fortunes in America, as a result of his faith in the future of the iron and steel industries.

An heiress to the many millions of her father, as well as a young person of much wealth in her own right, Mrs. Miller has had little concern with society, and is known better among her friends as a worker for varying civic and philanthropic causes. The "iron masters" purposes, it is said, was always to bring up his lovely daughter as a straight-forward, genuine, unspoiled American girl. Those who know the youthful bride declare that he succeeded as few fathers with millions ever succeeded in training their children.

Mrs. Miller has just passed her 22nd birthday. At the age of 19 she made her formal debut at a reception given at the Carnegie mansion. But she has never taken the slightest interest in the doings of what is termed "high society." Her only intimates are a few all of them girls whose acquaintance she made while attending Miss Spence's school in New York city, where she received her education and where she was graduated with honors in 1916. Even in her school days she took an active interest in social and philanthropic movements, and for two years before her graduation she held the position of vice president of the Armstrong league, an organization which has for its purpose the dissemination of information regarding the dependent races, particularly the Indian and negro.

Ensign Roswell Miller, U. S. N., is a few years the senior of his bride. He is the son of the late Roswell Miller, a prominent western capitalist and railroad man, who for many years was president of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway. Andrew Carnegie, began life a poor boy and worked his way to the top. After he had amassed a fortune he became much interested in the development of foreign commerce. With the death of the elder Miller the son took up the management of his father's affairs and retains a large interest in western railroads. When the war with Germany began he shelved his personal affairs, joined the American ambulance corps and went to France. Afterward he enlisted in the navy, trained at Columbia university and obtained a commission as an ensign. For many months he was in active service on a submarine chaser in the squadron patrolling the waters off Long Island. His brother, Charles R. Miller, has been with the naval aviation unit at Princeton university.

Calomel Users! Listen To Me! I Guarantee Dodson's Liver Tone

Your druggist gives back your money if it doesn't liven your liver and bowels and straighten you up without making you sick.

Ugh! Calomel makes you sick. It's horrible! Take a dose of the dangerous drug tonight and tomorrow you may lose a day's work.

Calomel is mercury or quicksilver which causes necrosis of the bones. Calomel, when it comes into contact with your bile, crashes into it, breaking it up. This is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you are sluggish and "all knocked out," if you liver is torpid and bowels constipated or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomach sour, just try a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone tonight.

Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous I want you to go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is destroying the sale of calomel because it is real liver medicine; entirely vegetable, therefore it can not salivate or make you sick. I guarantee that one spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone will put your sluggish liver to work and clean your bowels of that sour bile and constipated waste which is clogging your system and making you feel miserable. I guarantee that a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone will keep your entire family feeling fine for months. Give it to your children. It is harmless! doesn't gripe and they like its pleasant taste.
